Directs Timber Empire

Ralph M. Shaw, a member of the world-spanning B.C. timber firm of MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. for 29 years, has become its president, it was announced last night.

Mr. Shaw succeeds Harry S. Berryman, who also had been with the company for 29 years.

Mr. Berryman began with the company as a whistle punk. A statement said he was relinquishing his presidency on the advice of his doctors and would be retained by MacMillan and Bloedel "in a less demanding position."

Egypt Commands All Syria Forces

CAIRO (AP)—Syria's army chief of staff announced Thursday the Syrian and Egyptian armies are a single force under Egypt's supreme command.

Brig. Afif Bizry, who appeared here Wednesday with his intelligence chief, Lt.-Col. Abdel Hamid Serraj, ended

what he said were amiable talks with Egyptian leaders and prepared to return to Damascus. In an interview, Bizry said he came here on a pilgrimage to see President Nasser and visited Maj.-Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, Egyptian defence minister, "because it is the first duty of a soldier to contact his commander."

Former fisheries minister James Sinclair told his supporters he will not run against Lester Pearson for leadership of the Liberal party. "Mike is the obvious man for the job," he said yesterday when urged to seek the party leadership.

Link To U.S. Forged

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—The Continental Air Defence Command, started in 1954, became the North American Air Defence Command Thursday with the integration of all U.S. and Canadian air defence forces into a single operational command.

Headquarters are here. The command is headed by Gen. Earle E. Partridge of the U.S. Air Force with Air Marshal C. Roy Slamon of the RCAF as deputy commander-in-chief.

Humane Slaughter Requested

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—Most Rev. H. E. Sexton, archbishop of British Columbia, obtained passage Thursday of a resolution asking the executive council of the Anglican Church of Canada to recommend to the federal government a more humane method of cattle slaughter.

Bishop Sexton said some slaughter methods "left much to be desired."

No Means of Knowing

"Since our courts must presume a man innocent until he is proved guilty, the judge in the libel case must instruct the jury to presume that Mr. Sommers is innocent."

"Quite possibly he is innocent, we have no means of knowing," he said. "One would ordinarily think that he would prefer to be brought before a court, tried and acquitted than live on under a strictly technical presumption of innocence—a presumption based not on evidence but on the fact that no evidence has been allowed to be examined."

Turning to the question of the Polish art treasures, Prof. Burchill said that these were brought to Canada during the Second World War for safekeeping and were now housed in Quebec under the guardianship of Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec.

Although Canada recognizes the Polish Communist government Premier Duplessis has stated that he will never allow these art treasures to be returned to a Communist country, he said.

"The Canadian government has been placed... in a very difficult position."

News Editor's Delight

Schools, Like Weather, Always Talked About

Previous articles in this series have told how much we in British Columbia are spending on the education of the children, and how inadequate is the money we are getting for our money."

By R. O. MARRISON

Education today is a news editor's delight. Everyone seems interested in it, and every few days or weeks someone says something more or less violent about it, and sets off a new controversy.

This fact is not to be wondered at. The price we pay for the education of the children is enough in itself to keep us interested about it, but there is a stronger reason still for our interest in education.

If the groundwork for this series laid bare one truth that shines brighter than others, it is this: in judging education, we use ourselves as the basis of comparison. And contemplating ourselves is always interesting, and almost always a pleasure.

Hardly a person was interviewed who did not soon say, "When I was at school..." or "The way we were taught in England..." or "We weren't allowed..."

It would be neat and at first glance logical to report that all the most successful and clever people interviewed thought the school system that had produced them was perfect, and that the less successful wished they could have had the advantages of the present system. But it wouldn't be true.

Nor would it really be logical, the brighter people being in some cases the better able to assess the relative merits and demerits of the new and old.

But this much is true: Bright parents of apparently average or dull children were in many cases, but not in all, the harshest critics of the present system.

Poorly educated parents of children doing well in school were in many cases, but not in all, among the most ardent defenders of modern education.

Average parents of average children for the most part had no complaints.

INDUSTRY'S IDEA

Not only parents, of course, are critics of modern education in B.C. Much of the criticism comes from persons or groups who don't necessarily have children at school.

Industry generally would like to see more children better trained for industry. Last year, for example, the president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, J. Continued on Page 1

Federal Court Plan Sought To Break Provincial Grip

BY PETER BRUTON

Canada's present judicial system allows political friends of provincial governments to escape punishment while political enemies suffer the full severity of the law, Prof. Charles Burchill told the Victoria Rotary Club yesterday.

He urged the establishment of federal district courts to step in when provincial attorneys-general refuse to lay criminal charges for political reasons.

"There is something evil, false and fundamentally ugly in a situation which increasingly makes it possible for people with the right political connections to escape punishment while people with the wrong political opinions suffer the full severity of the law," said the teacher of history and economics at Royal Roads Tri-Services College.

Two fundamental weaknesses in the Canadian judicial system both stemmed from the same source—the peculiar status and function of the provincial attorney-general in Canada's 10 provinces.

The first of these weaknesses was the impotence of the federal government to secure the enforcement of its own laws or its own agreements where these concern Canada's relations with foreign powers. The second was the inability of the federal government to secure "the equitable and impartial enforcement of justice" among its citizens.

Professor Burchill dealt with three "specific cases" to illustrate his argument. These were the Sommers case and the Vancouver police probe in British Columbia and the case of the Polish art treasures in Quebec.

He said an attorney-general was first of all a politician, a cabinet minister and a party leader.

Loyal to Party

"As such, one of his first considerations is loyalty to his own party," he continued. "He must protect and advance the interests of his own supporters and opponents in order to secure the continued tenure of power by that party which he considers, with all its faults, to be the agency which can best govern the province."

Most Anglo-Saxon countries, he said, had taken the obvious precaution to ensure the independence of judges from political pressure of every kind but in Canada the problem had only been moved from the judge to the attorney-general.

Under the federal criminal code bribery was a crime, the speaker pointed out. Anyone accused of this crime "is normally brought to trial and either acquitted or convicted. But he can be brought to trial only if the attorney-general of the province authorizes a prosecution."

As an illustration he said former Vancouver police chief Walter Mulligan had never been brought to trial and his guilt or innocence (as to whether he accepted bribes) remained a matter of conjecture.

"Similarly, I know nothing about the Sommers case," Prof. Burchill continued.

"Here a minister of the crown was formally charged with accepting bribes by a prominent lawyer. The case was investigated by the RCMP, whose report was, of course, not published. Mr. Sommers denied all charges and sued Mr. Sturdy for libel," he said.

(Former lands and forests minister Robert E. Sommers is suing Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy for slander for alleged statements that he accepted money in exchange for forest management licences.)

'We're In Trouble'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) charged yesterday that the Eisenhower administration had told the American public only half-truths about Soviet progress in the ballistic missile race.

Symington said president Eisenhower should tell the American people that "we're in trouble and we've got to face up to it."

Take It Easy!

Take it easy. Today is Friday the 13th.

This is the first of the traditionally unlucky days in 1957. Those who get by it all right have only one more to worry about this year, in December.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

AUTUMN seems to put me in a bad temper. My summer foliage of goodwill and tolerance begins to curl at the edges and turn yellow about the last week of August.

I find more things to get angry about than I did in midsummer. Fatuous themes and redundant people seem to have taken over a large share of space and time in newspapers and radio news bulletins.

For instance, I don't care when or whether the Princess of Monaco has another child. Not only am I indifferent to this topic, which a number of editors consider so important, but any mention of it stirs me to actual hostility.

The name "Grace" is a cold breeze that sends the sap of human kindness (if any)—running down to my toes, where it stays all winter.

I'm tired of Asiatic flu. I never thought the disease an endearing subject in the first place, but now I hate it. President Eisenhower was inoculated against Asiatic flu recently, the papers and newscasters announced. So what? Thousands of people get needles every day. No doubt the president has already been immunized against everything from whooping cough to cholera. Do they call a press conference each time?

A mad Frenchman raised a flurry of headlines in recent weeks because he wanted to marry Princess Margaret. There was nothing unusual about that idea. All kinds of other men would like to marry Princess Margaret, but our wives and the princess are against it. Do we get in the news? No, and we don't want to. There is no reason why the Frenchman should grab a million dollars' worth of free publicity.

I'm dead sour on any story about Princess Margaret's marriage prospects, or Queen Elizabeth's speaking voice, her advisers or her domestic problems as viewed third-hand by lordlets and by yokels who don't know a queen from a jack.

In fact, I'm sour on so many news stories that I know there's something wrong with me. It isn't only the autumn. I must be growing old, along with the year.

I'm so eccentric that I would like to hear a lot more of what is actually going on in the world, outside the corridors of the palace and the bedrooms of the movie stars. The men in white coats will be calling for me any time now.

Justice Tainted

embarrassing position in relation to the government of a foreign power and yet is incapable of bringing any legal pressure on its citizens to appease the just annoyance of that power," he stated.

"Under our feeble constitution not the government of a sovereign power, since it is unable to control its citizens to prevent their offending foreign governments," he added.

"There is another, and I think more fundamental aspect of this case and that concerns the simple matter of theft. Citizens of Canada have co-operated in stealing property belonging to others."

"They are protected in their theft by the government of Quebec, and the Dominion Government, which enacts the Criminal Code and imposes the penalties for theft, is quite powerless to bring known thieves before the courts, or to secure the punishment of crime," he said.

"This sort of thing happens often than is generally known," said Prof. Burchill. He told the Rotarians that there were dozens of men living freely in Canada today who are known to have broken federal laws and who are able to defy these laws with impunity.

CITES NAZIS

A large group of Nazi collaborators entered illegally and took refuge in Quebec after the war, he continued. Although some of these men were charged with extraditable offences ranging from murder to criminal conspiracy, Canada is powerless to deport them as the government of Quebec has undertaken to protect them.

"Now admittedly all these cases have a more or less political flavor as well as an ethical flavor," said the professor.

B.C. ASSUMPTION

"In the case of British Columbia the attorney-general would appear to have weighed carefully the political damage that would result from prosecution against the claims of justice and to have decided his course on political rather than ethical grounds," he stated.

"We, who are just ordinary citizens, must regard these developments with alarm," Prof. Burchill added.

He said the chief difficulty lay in the system which places on the attorney-general in each province the responsibility for deciding what criminal cases should be proceeded with and which should be abandoned.

POLITICIAN

"Admittedly this decision must be made by someone," he said. "Where the attorney-general is a man of great personal probity with a reverence for abstract justice there is no difficulty. But the attorney-general, in the nature of things must be a practising politician."

"If too nice a regard for justice may endanger the future of his party, and if he is himself a man of weak character, not very sensible of the distinction between right and wrong, grave damage may be done to the moral fabric of society," he continued.

VISIONARY

Prof. Burchill said one remedy, of course, would be to elect to power only those parties which could be trusted to appoint attorneys-general who would serve the cause of

N. T. Bulman, called on parents to help "sell" technical careers to the students—"Canada must make the maximum possible use of her available manpower; if our manufacturing capacity sinks, the standard of living of the majority of Canadians will sink with it."

TOO MUCH?

On the other side of the fence are some of the professions and many of the people in them would like to see children better trained in arts and humanities.

Many of the taxpayers, mindful of the cost, are angry at the way children are taught (as one woman put it) "everything from how to blow their nose to how to drive their father's car" at school, at public expense.

TOO LITTLE?

Others, and not just selfish parents but persons and groups with public welfare and safety in mind, or keenly interested in the advancement of art or music or some particular skill, hammer just as insistently for inclusion of more "extras" in the education the province offers free.

Tot Felled As He Runs To Meet Dad

Donald Anderson, 4½, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Anderson of 1146 Metcalfe Road, was back home yesterday after being injured in an accident Wednesday afternoon.

Donald received minor cuts and bruises when he was in collision with a car outside his home. The boy had heard the air brakes of the bus bringing his father home from work, and rushed out to meet Mr. Anderson. He collided with a car about to pass the bus.

Donald was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital.

News Editor's Delight

From time to time the inclusion of actual driving instruction in high school courses has been suggested. The minister of education says the latest pressure on the department is to include instruction in jet engines in the curriculum.

IN BETWEEN

So far, the department of education thinks it has balanced the school system rather nicely between the extremes demanded, and research carried out in preparation for these articles has indicated that it is probably right.

From my brief study of our educational system in this province, Education Minister Leslie R. Peterson said in a recent letter, "I believe that, while no system is perfect, or ever has been, and while no system can be long remain static, it is a good system, which is attempting to keep abreast of the times and if the answers are good enough

Island Society Will Write Diefenbaker

Vancouver Island Branch of the Royal Empire Society will write to Prime Minister Diefenbaker asking him to explore the possibility of establishing a Commonwealth secretariat in Canada.

The decision to approach the prime minister was made unanimously by members after the secretariat proposal had been suggested by Richard L. Thomas, Colonist London correspondent in an address to the society.

A total of $1,200 has been raised in the recent fund drive of the Victoria Boys' Band. The money, said band officials, will go "a long way towards putting the band on its feet again with the purchase of uniforms and instruments."

"The time is anticipated in the not-too-distant future when, with a membership of between 50 and 60, the band will become a proficient musical organization and valuable asset of Victoria," it was stated.

Split Shaping In France

PARIS (Reuters)—A sharp split is developing over economic policy between Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury and Finance Minister Felix Gaillard. The premier, intent on saving his three-month-old government, has been trying to appease powerful French farm interests that still may succeed in toppling him. The finance minister is bucking the premier's apparent bid to water down the Gaillard plan to cut farm subsidies as part of a general anti-inflation campaign.

OLD SPORT

Battledore and shuttlecock, a game somewhat similar to badminton, was played 2,000 years ago in China.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States accused Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko yesterday of lying about American actions in the Middle East in an effort to undermine world peace.

In an unusually sharp blast at Gromyko, the state department also said the Soviet foreign minister totally distorted peaceful policies and objectives of the entire free world.

The statement came as Israel asked the United States for "crystal clear" assurance that it will strongly oppose any aggression resulting from the arms race in the Middle East.

RADIO WARNING

LONDON (UP)—Radio Moscow warned that United States policy in the middle east could bring "the flames of a great fire of war."

A commentator on the Russian state radio's domestic service was warning Greece against becoming an "accomplice" to American actions in the Syrian situation when he declared: "The flames of a great fire of war which can break out as a result of the adventurous policy of the U.S. imperialists in the Near East would scorch also the areas which are not in the direct neighborhood of Syria."

TEN KILLED

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Lebanon gendarmes and a band of unidentified men fought a 45-minute battle yesterday on the border between Lebanon and Syria. Ten persons were killed, including four gendarmes.

The battle stepped up tension again on the border between the two Arab countries. There has been comparative quiet for 10 days, since the Lebanese government clamped down on smuggling of large quantities.

Too Steep a Jump

DEFINITION of some of the actual results of the City's new formula for a trading impost, whether as licence or under the rental tax, has intersected a new element into that discussion. A sudden five-fold increase in the trading levy, which would appear to be the lot of some firms, is hard to justify in the terms stated. When it is remembered that a considerable part of the increase will fall on a few firms, most of which already pay stiff enough land and improvement taxes, the combination appears excessive.

No one can quarrel with the desire of the City to relieve some of the burden of property taxes regarding the other-than-land costs of the times. The tax adjustment should have taken into account the difference between owner-traders and non-owning traders to begin with. This would have avoided what possibly could happen—a reappraisal by some firms of their continuing desire to do business within the city limits at all. There is need of reconsideration both with regard to the double form of impost (property and rental value levies), and also of the rate of the new rental levy itself. At 7 per cent the rental impost bears small, if any, relation to the former trade licence collection. Some upward adjustment had been indicated, but not in the punitive form it seems to bear.

In the last analysis Victoria has as much or more to lose in too-precipitate an increase in trading imposts as it stands to gain by the increased revenue collections on a rental value basis. At the forthcoming court of revision, if not before, the city should be prepared to effect a fair and reasonable readjustment of some of the anomalies perhaps unwittingly built into its new collection system. Few firms are likely to endorse a 500 per cent increase in their trading fees at a time when the economy of the nation itself has slackened.

This paper argued against the grading of the rental value levy on the ground that this would involve an assessment on corporate incomes, very little if at all disguised. At the same time we doubt if some of the evils of that system have not now been invoked by the current application of the new "rental values." Some of the valuations would seem out of line if the definitive levies in civic revenue have been correctly set out. In the long run the City must agree with its trading community on some fair plan, or else face the prospect of a diminishing retail section. With a fast-growing population nobody wants that.

Traffic and the Police

A VICTORIA visitor to San Francisco or Los Angeles may well be amazed when he sees a policeman, more usually two of them, directing traffic at every downtown corner, no matter that there are traffic signs and signals aplenty at each intersection. He could be excused for thinking that these cities must be well staffed with police officers when they can spare so many of them for such point duty. This takes no account either of roaming police motorcycles or prowling cars which also divert their attention to traffic.

In greater or less degree the situation is similar in most cities. Much of the work of police departments is concerned exclusively with traffic. Obviously this means that fewer men are available for what before the motor age was strictly "police" work—investigating complaints, combatting the criminal element, and generally keeping a protective watch over the community. Police forces still have this as a prime objective, but it is a factor of modern urban life that the control of traffic has grown to be of consuming dimensions.

Some cities have handed much of their traffic enforcement over to the Corps of Commissioners, after the fashion of Victoria which employs members of this corps to attend to parking meter violations. This releases policemen for basic police duties, although such a step has not always been found to provide a satisfactory solution to the problem. As civilians of mature years commissioners are not normally equipped to handle the pressures of congested intersections, and they lack the authority inherent in a police uniform. Nor could they undertake motorcycle police duty with the vigor and resourcefulness of regular officers. The employment of such an aid in police work is therefore limited in scope.

It all boils down to a question of manpower, and nowhere, Victoria included, is there ever any great willingness to increase the size of local police forces. Communities must expect therefore that if about half their policemen are preoccupied with the enforcement of traffic laws of one kind or another they cannot be on tap for other duties. If citizens want a more watchful eye kept on the prevention of crime and the swift apprehension of evildoers they must be prepared to foot the bill for such a safeguard. When the size of the Greater Victoria police forces is contrasted with the ever increasing volume of traffic control work thrown on them, in fact, the conclusion must be that the collective community of this area is well served; certainly as well served as it deserves to be.

Out of the Red at Last

MUSIC lovers of the capital region must have been delighted to read that the Victoria Symphony Society closed this financial year with a substantial amount of cash in hand instead of another of the whopping debits with which each year has ended in the past. This happy reversal of fortune is a tribute to the acumen and determination of the board of directors, to the generosity of the society's individual supporters, and to the competence and loyalty of the orchestra itself.

The orchestra's accomplishments are well recognized, not only in Victoria but in the music world of Canada, in which it has risen to a position of note. On the administrative side the society, too, has made astonishing progress under the presidency of Mr. Jack Barracough and his predecessor, Dr. J. F. K. English, neither of whom ever once yielded to the succession of financial discouragements which have beset the society from the beginning.

For the position of the society and its future prospects to be clearly understood, however, it should be emphasized that the need for continued financial support is not diminished by the state of the current balance sheet. Neither here nor anywhere else can a symphony orchestra be self-supporting and the Victoria society would be deeply into the red today if it were not for the cash contributions of firms and individuals inspired to help preserve the orchestra intact by dual motives: admiration of the orchestra's splendid work and realization of what it means to a city of Victoria's stature to possess a nationally famous orchestra. The city as a whole, and not merely its music-loving element, owes much to these unselfish contributors.

On the One Per Cent Tax

From the Sloan Report

"At the 1953 fall session of the legislature, amendments were made to the Taxation Act to provide a 1-per-cent annual tax on the assessed value of timber leases and licences that are not included within a forest management licence."

"I have given much thought to the incidence of this tax and I have reached the conclusion that this annual 1-per-cent levy on the artificially created taxation class of 'forest land' is, in my opinion, contrary to the principles on which these tenures were established and is a retrograde step in forest management because it penalizes owners who hold their timber in reserve for future use, which is good business management and, in fact, necessary under conditions of Coast forest inventory, which show a shortage of middle-age classes of mature timber."

"If this timber were not thus held for the future it would be necessary for the government to reserve an equivalent additional amount of unalienated timber, and thus reduce the volume available for timber sales. This policy would reduce direct revenue to the Crown in timber-sale stumpage by an amount far greater than the yield of the 1-per-cent tax. The alternative, if neither private owners nor the Crown reserved a sufficient volume of timber, would be the abandonment of the general sustained-yield policy."

"I am of the opinion, therefore, that the 1-per-cent temporary tenures tax should be abolished. The contribution to revenue made by these tenures should follow the pattern on which they were established; that is to say, they should pay a low annual rental and stumpage (that is, royalty) at rates related to the values of logs at time of cutting."

"It was submitted, in the alternative, during the inquiry that the 1-per-cent tax is discriminatory and, if it is going to remain in force, ought to be imposed uniformly upon all leases and licences whether within or without forest management licences."

"In any event my primary recommendation and one upon which I put the most stress, is that this 1-per-cent tax be abolished. I share the opinion of The Canadian Institute of Forestry that this tax is detrimental to good forestry."

"If the government accepts my recommendation . . . the question of royalty revision becomes more impelling. Royalties in my opinion should be a more flexible instrument than now in protecting the interest of the Crown in the unearned increment represented by old-growth forests."

"Same goes for this stuff as for Scotch during prohibition. Peddling it to the natives is illegal!"

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT CAN be said that water links every place which fronts an ocean passage; certainly one could take a boat and sail from Victoria to Edinburgh. If less visible, history can present a similar skein.

Because a king broke the Sabbath 829 years ago to-morrow — at the same time, perhaps that some tribal king or chief wandered in search of game on Beacon Hill—a fine baronial structure is being fashioned on MacBride Avenue.

It is the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society's multiple Holyrood House, a suite of halls the like of which the city does not now possess. Five there are in all besides ancillary chambers, the largest capable of accommodating an audience of some 300 persons and the smallest a cosy meeting place for 70 or less.

Auditorium space for Victoria is thus being enlarged.

The king in question, the son of a saint, could not envisage such a faraway development in place and time; the new world was still in darkness and had not sampled the beauty of the bagpipe. But when David I left Edinburgh Castle to go hunting in the nearby forest on a holy day, against the entreaties of his advisers, he set a long train of events in motion.

Legend tells us that a white hart appeared and startled his horse so that it threw him, almost to be gored by the stag. But as the king grasped the hart's horns a spectral cross intervened and frightened the animal and it sped away, leaving a piece of horn in the king's hand in the shape of St. Andrew's Cross.

The king was dutifully penitent, and in thanks for his escape he founded famed Holyrood Abbey on the exact spot of his misadventure.

It was an apt choice of name that led the Caledonians to call their MacBride Avenue building after the palace that stands at the foot of Edinburgh's Royal Mile, a mecca for tourists from all over the globe. The Palace of Holyroodhouse is a fount of their early history, an echo of gay and grave days, the home of Stewart kings and their brides.

The palace takes its name from the Abbey of the Holy Rood that David I founded, now a ruin abutting its northern wall. It was in Holyroodhouse that Mary Queen of Scots played, danced, loved—and wept. It was there that Bonnie Prince Charlie held his brilliant temporary court. It was there through the centuries that fashionable ladies of the land displayed their charms at masques and balls.

And it is there when in residence that Elizabeth, the present Queen of Scots and Queen of Canada, revives the glories of her ancient forbears.

The Holyrood House of Victoria will ring in days to come with similar sounds of song, dance and revelry, to the quadrille and the eight-some and the social gatherings of the clans. It will be a centre of activity too for other organizations of the city.

And who knows but that some day Queen Elizabeth herself will cross the portals of this namesake of her Edinburgh house.

The St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society, whose home the fine new centre near the Armoury will be, has worked long and hard to bring this building to fruition. This society has the distinction of being one of the two oldest organizations of any kind in the province. Its roots go back to 1859 when the founder of Victoria, Governor Sir James Douglas, was its first honorary president; its present honorary president is Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross, so that the skein of history is a dual one.

Victoria's Holyrood House, nearly ready to open its doors, will be a credit to those who fashioned it, and, even to the king who unwittingly gave it its name.

Mr. Bulganin's Puzzling Letters

By W. N. EWER, from London

MR. Macmillan's letter of Aug. 30 to Mr. Bulganin represents the most recent stage in a diplomatic offensive which was initiated by the Soviet Government last March with a letter from Bulganin to Norwegian Prime Minister Einar Gerhardsen. Since then Mr. Bulganin has written to the prime ministers of Denmark, Britain and France and has sent messages to the governments of West Germany and Greece. His first letter to Mr. Macmillan was answered. It was followed by a second which has now been answered.

Earlier I wrote that the purpose of it all seemed to be: Really private letters from one head of government to another could perhaps serve some useful end. But Bulganin's letters—and therefore the replies to them—have, though "personal," been anything but private. They have been written for publication, they have been "open letters," and long-range public argument of this kind leads nowhere. Mr. Macmillan has only continued it because silence might be interpreted as discourtesy.

Yet there are points in this last exchange which deserve attention. The British prime minister has devoted attention mainly to the purely Anglo-Soviet questions raised by the Soviet prime minister. As he says, wider international matters "affect our allies as much as ourselves and cannot be dealt with satisfactorily in a bilateral correspondence."

The most important specifically Anglo-Soviet questions which have been raised by Bulganin were those of economic and cultural relations. With regard to both, the Soviet Premier had complained that hoped-for developments had been prevented by the policy and the attitude of the U.K. government. Mr. Macmillan deals with both.

With regard to economic relations, the main Soviet charge had been that the development of Anglo-Russian trade was being prevented by the maintenance of prohibitions or restrictions on the export of "strategic" goods from the U.K. to the Soviet Union.

Mr. Macmillan in reply says quite frankly that there can be no question in the existing circumstances of any change of policy in this regard. But he points out that there is still a wide field for the development of trade in the commodities not affected by regulations about "strategic materials" if Russia cares to take advantage of it.

In fact, there has already been such development. British imports from Russia in the first half of 1956 were £20,100,000; in the first half of 1957 they were £24,900,000. British exports, too, rose in the corresponding periods from £12,800,000 to £21,100,000.

There is ample room for further expansion if the Soviet government so desires. When Messrs. Bulganin and Khrushchev were in London in the spring of 1956, they produced a schedule of goods which the Soviet Union wished to purchase in Britain. Two-thirds of it were unaffected by any restrictions. But orders are still awaited. Nor has there been any response to an offer to sell to Russia "consumer goods" of which her people are in great need. As to British imports from the Soviet Union, the bulk of them are "admitted without limitation."

So, in the matter of trade, development is possible whenever the Soviet government wills.

So, too, with regard to "cultural contacts." As far as the British government is concerned, the door is wide open.

It is true, as Mr. Macmillan points out, that the shock to British public opinion caused by the events in Hungary made it difficult for the government to sponsor some large-scale projects which had been under discussion. Far more important than any officially-sponsored plans would be unofficial, free, informal visits and exchanges. To these, the British government opposes no impediments whatsoever.

There would be no obstacle to them if the Soviet government would take steps to remove all barriers to the free exchange of persons and information. But there are strict limitations to the movements of British citizens in the Soviet Union. Soviet books and newspapers and periodicals can be bought freely in the U.K.; but not British ones in Russia. Anyone in the U.K. may listen to all the Soviet broadcasts. But the Soviet government still continually jams BBC broadcasts.

These are controversial points. But they had to be made, if only to "get the record straight."

And now I hope this exchange of "open letters" can cease. Whatever one's views on any of the topics which have been discussed, such a method of discussion achieves nothing and gets nowhere. I am still puzzled to understand why Mr. Bulganin initiated it.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

A FRIEND of mine with whom I am in endless dispute saved his money like a miser for the past three years, denying his wife all reasonable fripperies, declining himself to go on health-giving fishing trips, and otherwise leading the life of a Victorian curmudgeon.

And with this ill-gotten money he went with his wife on a ten-weeks trip to Europe during the past summer, visiting Britain, France, Italy and the Scandinavian countries, he being fond of smorgasbord.

He arrived home last week and went straight to bed, where he is likely to be for the next several weeks.

He has let it be known that he got the Asiatic flu.

"That sounds romantic," his wife tells me. "But he has nothing of the kind. The doctor says it is either his liver or some kind of severe gastric disturbance, due to his having tried to get his money's worth on the ship coming home."

"Money's worth?" I questioned.

"Food," said his wife. "He tried to eat his whole passage money in the ship's dining room. We paid $350 each for our passage. So he picked up menus all over Europe and brought them on board the ship. Each morning, he would go down and pick for breakfast what he figured were the costliest items on the menu. Then he would come up on deck with his collection of menus from London, Paris, Rome and Copenhagen, and work out how much he would have paid for that breakfast at the best restaurants. Lunch, the same. He worked out several lunches on board ship that would have cost him $20 at Premier's or the Ritz. (We only had tea at the Ritz, but he managed to wangle a dinner menu.) Dinner, he ate until I thought he would burst; but he ran his dinner check, by comparison with the smartest restaurants on the continent, away up over $40, with wines and special desserts such as only millionaires order, even on shipboard, where everything is on the house."

"By the time we sighted Newfoundland," went on his wife, "he figured he was $65 ahead of the steamship company. As we came up before Quebec, he was having a last tea down in the saloon—tea with petit fours, bel paese cheese and other delicacies—to make it $140 he figured he was up on the boat."

"On the diner coming home from Quebec he got seasick, and only drank weak tea. As soon as we reached the house, he went straight to bed and sent for the doctor."

Braving the Asiatic flu, I went up to see him last night. He looked peaked, but proud.

Thin Red Line

What a travesty of truth and justice was contained in an article written by George Mortimore in your Sunday edition.

When did the Red Cross of St. George become symbolic of the British Empire? If the thin red line in this so-called tartan were symbolic of the red-blooded pioneers who carved this province out of the wilderness—men like Sir James Simpson, Fraser, Mackenzie, McGillivray, Strathcona and hundreds of other Scots—it would have some justification. These are the men who created the history and heritage of New Caledonia, later British Columbia.

Earned Their Pensions

Please convey to the public what I and others think about the $2,800 dinner for the Chamber of Commerce. I notice by Mr. Hilton's letter that he is in favor of this, but the majority of the citizens of this city are very much against it. If it is not the taxpayers' money they are spending, then why is it passed through our city council?

With reference to the old-age pensioners, I think Mr. Hilton has got mixed up a bit and if the city is giving any meals to any old people, we do not hear about it.

These OAPs are mostly veterans of the First World War and pioneers of this country and our sons are veterans of the Second World War, so in our small way we have earned the few dollars we get.

Fire Department—Costs

Continuing the comparison of costs for services provided by Victoria and Saanich lets look at the fire departments.

Using round figures, in 1956 Saanich, population 38,000 had one fireman for each 1,055 people. The total cost is $156,000 or a per capita cost of about $4.10. I believe the underwriters rate Saanich as having a very good department.

In 1956, Victoria, population 54,000, spent $454,000 on fire protection at a per capita cost of about $8.40.

Thus, under outright amalgamation, Saanich could expect to pay more for fire protection. However, in its report the institute says combining the forces would be very easy and that a much more efficient and effective use of staff and equipment would result. Why this might be so is not discussed; especially as the co-operation of the area fire units is so excellent.

In expenditures on parks there is a vast difference between what Victoria spends and what Saanich spends. In 1956 on parks and playgrounds Victoria spent in round figures about $322,000 or $6 per capita. Saanich spends roughly about 25¢ per capita. This difference could be explained in part, at least, by the fact that Saanich has available many large natural park areas and open spaces, many of its citizens live in almost natural parklike surroundings; therefore there is no immediate need for large-scale developments of same.

The main concern, as the institute points out, is that all available park sites in this area should be preserved for the public (developed or not) as such areas can disappear with remarkable speed. The institute recommends a unified parks board because it would be in a stronger position to ask the government for financial aid and also that this area should have outstanding parks to lure the tourists. It points out that a unified approach would, in time, make for a much better park system.

Many Opposed

As one of the "irresponsible" and "ill-advised" anti-fluoridationists, I would like to point out to the public health officials that this "faction" includes a remarkable number of medical, dental and research men, in Canada, the U.S.A. and Europe. Their articles appearing in medical journals explain the real and potential dangers of fluoridating water.

I have read many such articles, written by medical men, in such journals as Dental Digest, Oral Hygiene, The Lancet, Northwest Medicine, The Edinburgh Medical Journal, to mention a few.

There are 20 medical and scientific associations and societies in the U.S.A. opposing fluoridation, a list of which I enclose.

The Royal Medical Board of Sweden turned down fluoridation on the advice of the scientific council, after years of consideration. For many years in Switzerland children whose parents want them to have fluorides have been given tablets. In this way it is not forced on those who don't want it.

Those "ill-advised" folk who make up the Pasteur Institute in France have turned down fluoridation.

Enough Horror

It is difficult to recognize what useful purpose can be achieved by the publication of the series of articles on the heart by Earl Ubell, entitled The Biggest Killer, in The Daily Colonist which, if of any value to anyone, should be limited to members of the medical profession.

The articles appear to be lurid descriptions of the horrors of heart disease, with little hope of alleviation. The best advice a newspaper can give to a heart sufferer is to follow his own medical adviser's advice, and "to be of good heart." The general news today contains plenty of horror stories. Let us not add to them with a lot of tripe.

Have You Seen Spotty?

Spotty the Rabbit has gone absent without leave, and three children on Fairfield Road are unhappy.

Spotty is the property of Ricky, Virky and Jo-Anne Almas of 1818 Fairfield. She lives in a pen beneath the rear steps of the Almas home.

Somehow Spotty got out of her pen Wednesday night, and vanished. She's a big rabbit, but sensible, if aloof.

Spotty is white, with brown ears, brown eyes, and a couple of brown spots on her back.

Ingledew Funeral Monday

George Ingledew, 68-year-old retired provincial civil servant and prominent city entertainer in former years, died in Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday.

Funeral services will be held in McCalls' funeral home at 10:30 a.m. Monday.

Born in London, Mr. Ingledew served overseas in the First World War, then joined the surveys branch of the B.C. lands department in 1918, retiring in 1947. He was well-known as a singer in Gilbert and Sullivan and other local productions.

A member of the Masonic order, he was a past master of Confederation Lodge.

Survivors include his widow, Elsie, at home, 376 Beach Drive, three daughters, Mrs. Victor Cooley, Mrs. Tom O'Connell and Mrs. Barbara Shephard, all of Victoria, seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Names in the News

Too Good to Hungarians?

BRANDON—A lay delegate to the Anglican executive council annual meeting Thursday suggested the federal government, while doing "a great job for Hungarian immigrants" sometimes is a little too generous.

Judge J. Elliott Hudson of Halifax said meal allowance for refugees on trains was $2.75 a day, $1.75 for breakfast, $2.25 for lunch and $2.45 for dinner.

"I am appreciative of the government's generosity in spending $6.75 for these people when ... I was going to say first class citizens get $3 a day while ..."

His remarks were not audible in the subsequent uproar. The $3 he referred to is the allowance granted by general synd to travelling delegates to the meetings here.

LONDON—Sir John Glubb, former British commander of Jordan's Arab Legion, says Arabs "are eminently reasonable and very nice chaps." "They have just got to be independent," he said. "These people are so touchy about independence that it is only too easy to be just a little bit bossy and get them rubbed up all the wrong way."

NEW YORK—Archbishop Makarios, exiled Greek bishop of Cyprus, arrived Thursday for a three-month visit to "enlighten the American people of the Cyprus question."

CARACAS, Venezuela—Group Captain Peter Townsend insists there is no romance now between him and Princess Margaret. He termed a London newspaper report that their romance is still alive as "pure invention."

MOSCOW—Aneurin Bevan, British Labor party leader, has arrived here with his wife for a week's visit. Bevan said he might visit the Crimea where Khrushchev and Bulganin are known to be vacationing.

VANCOUVER—A seven-year prison sentence for drug trafficking was imposed on a former Sunday school teacher yesterday. Thomas Cuthbert Higgins, 35, nodded his head and murmured a "thank you" when Magistrate Oscar Orr handed down the sentence.

QUEBEC—A reliable informant indicates that R.L. Hon. Louis St. Laurent is prepared to head the Liberal opposition at the fall session of Parliament.

HOLLYWOOD—Actress Joanne Dru, former wife of crooner Dick Haymes and actor John Ireland, has declared herself bankrupt after her marriages ended with only "thousands of dollars in unpaid bills."

MOSCOW—Soviet Minister for Higher Education Vyacheslav Yelutin said yesterday that 80,000 engineers would graduate from Russian universities by the end of 1957, an increase of 11,000 over 1956.

LANSING, Kan.—Officials

There may be times when you find it difficult to have cash on hand to meet the fixed payments and unexpected expenses that arise in the purchase and upkeep of your home. To enable you to provide funds to meet these inevitable expenses the Huron & Erie has introduced a new "Home Budget" account.

Suppose that you own a home valued at $15,000 on which there is a $7,000 mortgage at 7% payable over 15 years. The "Home Budget" table shows, in approximate figures, the more important expenses involved and how much you should deposit each weekly pay day to meet these expenses and to supply an extra "cushion".

In this way your regular fixed expenses can be paid each month while the "cushion" for the unexpected grows each pay day through the extra dollar per item per pay day you deposit.

Call at the Huron & Erie and ask about a "Home Budget" account—a way to help you make it easier to meet these expenses.

Market Rally Carries On Second Day

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market, led by base metals, Thursday carried its rally through a second straight session.

Base metals gained nearly four points on their index, the best rise they have made in any session since Feb. 13. Leaders of the rally were copper, nickel and zinc, all of which rose more than 10 points. The price of a ton of copper rose to $100.00, nickel to $100.00 and zinc to $100.00. The price of a ton of lead rose to $100.00, tin to $100.00 and silver to $100.00. The price of a ton of gold rose to $100.00, platinum to $100.00 and palladium to $100.00. The price of a ton of iron ore rose to $100.00, manganese to $100.00 and chromium to $100.00. The price of a ton of cobalt rose to $100.00, vanadium to $100.00 and niobium to $100.00. The price of a ton of tantalum rose to $100.00, tungsten to $100.00 and molybdenum to $100.00. The price of a ton of selenium rose to $100.00, tellurium to $100.00 and bismuth to $100.00. ## Exchanges More Cheerful

Defence Billions Help

The more cheerful sentiment on stock exchanges after weeks of small-trade, sagging prices, appears to be hinging momentarily on the decision of the U.S. government to unfreeze an additional $10,000,000,000 for defence spending.

The immediate effect is expected to be the opening of numerous contracts which have been held up as government officials have argued over the release of the funds. The release of this vast sum of money in the U.S. will have the effect of creating a new demand for many strategic materials which have recently come into a severe state of overproduction.

Such a one is copper, whose price has dropped this year from 45 cents to 25 cents a pound. Hard on top of the unfreeze order from Washington yesterday, one U.S. custom smelter raised its copper price by half a cent to 25 cents a pound—the first upward move in the red metal for many months and a sharp reversal of last week's performance when copper prices were cut 1.5 cents a pound.

While new defence spending comes as a saviour to industry in many shapes and forms, it has to be remembered the money to pay the bill is tax money, so that it is inflationary in one of the more insidious ways. The effect will reflect itself indirectly on Canada, because the supply of raw materials—particularly metals—to the United States is almost as important to the country as is the maintenance of the exports of the pulp and paper industry.

Export loadings, overnight, of Canadian wheat included Japan 710,000 bushels, U.K. 430,000, Netherlands 385,000, Norway 320,000, Germany 400,000 and Belgium 20,000.

Rising Canadian issues on the New York exchange included McIntyre, ahead 3 1/2, Hudson Bay Mining 1 1/2, International Nickel 1 1/2 and Canadian Pacific 1 1/2. Aluminum Ltd. traded 11,700 shares while gaining 1/4. Dome Mines lost 1/4 on sale of 800 shares and Walker-Gordon dropped off 1/4. Prices also rose on the American exchange.

Canadian grains included Fargio Oil, ahead 5 1/2 on sales of 7,800 shares, Canadian Marconi 1/4, and Molybdenum of Canada 1/4. With sales of 1,800 shares, Preston East Dome lost 1 1/2 and Brazilian Traction dropped 1/4.

CHICAGO (CP)—Reports of increased sales of cash wheat in the southwest were reflected on the Board of Trade as wheat futures declined up to 2 cents a bushel at times.

One factor influencing wheat at Chicago was Britain's announcement that henceforth its grain requirements will be purchased principally from Canada. Britain has been a big buyer of United States wheat, as well as other grains, and the announcement helped ease wheat futures.

Soybeans also were steady, while oats held around previous levels to slightly easier.

Standard Shares Slump As Massey Drops Offer

LONDON (CP)—Standard Motors shares dropped more than a shilling on the London Stock Exchange in the first day's trading following the announcement that Massey-Harris-Ferguson has withdrawn its offer to buy a controlling interest in the firm.

Standard closed at 6 1/2 10/16 compared with Wednesday's eight shillings.

The Canadian company announced Wednesday that it will not proceed with its offer because of depreciation of Massey-Harris-Ferguson stock on North American exchanges and uncertainty of the effect of the devaluation of the franc on its operations on the continent.

Although critics of the proposed transaction, announced two months ago, expressed satisfaction at the news that it had been dropped, Standard shares fell 1/4,000 in today's trading.

blames largely Canadian institutions such as the life insurance companies for inadequate supporting Canadian industry.

"They did not even do so when money was cheap," continues the Barometer, "their indifference even when such a highly desirable investment medium as pipelines is available... because it is one of the reasons for the stranglehold Americans have on Canadian financing and a main reason for the non-existence of a money market in Canada."

While many Canadian investors will agree with this view, it has also to be remembered that Canadian industry has itself made such tremendous demands for new capital in the past ten years that it medium as pipelines is available... because it is one of the reasons for the stranglehold Americans have on Canadian financing and a main reason for the non-existence of a money market in Canada."

An explanation of this course is given in the August Financial Barometer, published by Norman R. Whittall Ltd., whose president, Norman R. Whittall, is a vice-president of Westcoast Transmission.

"U.S. participation in something which Canada could handle alone demonstrates the grip Americans have on prime Canadian industrial financing."

This is due to absence in Canada of a money market to take care of first mortgage borrowing which Westcoast will require later.

JEWELRY NEEDED

"It is practically impossible in existing conditions to borrow first mortgage money without tempting the lenders with 'financial jewelry' such as common stock, warrants or rights."

The Barometer adds this is the reason why so many Westcoast convertibles have had to be sold in the U.S. and it

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trading saw fairly aggressive demand in flax with international interests and U.S. houses on the buying side of the market.

Hedging sales and other offerings were liberal but well taken and prices made broad gains—a little irregular at times.

Oats noted some commercial demand from millers and processors with a few domestic shipping orders in both oats and barley. Prices moved in narrow limits.

Export loadings, overnight, of Canadian wheat included Japan 710,000 bushels, U.K. 430,000, Netherlands 385,000, Norway 320,000, Germany 400,000 and Belgium 20,000.

Kasper Freed, Jailed

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — After lunching on cabbage and cornbread, segregationist John Kasper of New Jersey was turned out of the city workhouse Thursday on a $500 appeal bond. His freedom ended a few minutes later, however, behind the county jail bars where he was held on a state charge of inciting others to riot. The appeal bond was posted by Porter Freeman of nearby Nolensville, a feed merchant and frequent candidate for local offices. The lanky segregationist spent Thursday morning wiping workhouse bars with a dusting rag. Shortly before noon he waited: "I want to see the chief of police. This can't go on."

Desegregation Order

'Hands Off' Judge Warns

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Federal Judge William E. Miller issued a temporary court order Thursday forbidding interference with officials carrying out his orders to desegregate Nashville schools. Nashville city and school officials asked for the order to strengthen their hands against violence which has accompanied desegregation here. The order forbids 12 individuals and anybody else acting in concert with them from interfering with school attendance. The defendants include northern segregationist John Kasper. The court move came during the second day of uneasy calm. Meanwhile, President Eisenhower and Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas edged warily toward a Saturday meeting which may go far toward quieting Southern resistance to school integration. It was announced Attorney-General Herbert Brownell and chief White House assistant Sherman Adams will fly from Washington for the meeting. Faubus will be accompanied by Representative Brooks Hays.

(Dem. Ark.), a personal friend of the president. Indications were the president would talk privately with Faubus. Then Brownell and the others were expected to join. In Little Rock, Ark., a source close to the governor said Faubus is coming here "to confer, not capitulate."

A King in New York

Chaplin Needles U.S.

LONDON (AP)—A packed theatre Thursday night gave a mixed reception at the world premiere of Charlie Chaplin's new movie, "A King in New York." Members of the audience cheered loudest when Chaplin turned a fire hose on the film version of the U.S. House of Representatives committee on un-American activities. But there were many people who did not cheer. Some stared at Chaplin, who sat in the front row of the royal circle, and shook their heads.

Chaplin used his 10-year-old son, Michael, as the chief mouthpiece of his message. Michael, a dark-haired, and-eyed boy, sat near his father at the premiere, as did Chaplin's American wife, the former Oona O'Neill. The Chaplin film is the story of a well-meaning European monarch who flees from a revolution to the United States. He takes with him his atomic secrets in which he tries to interest the American government—but only for peaceful reasons.

Sunday Sport Approach May Change

BRANDON, Man. (CPI)—Laymen of the Anglican Church of Canada could do much to help Sunday a day of rest, Rt. Rev. M. E. Coleman, bishop of Qu'Appelle, said Thursday. "If the clergy take up the battle cry and lead the fight, others will say they are looking for business and much of the sting will be lost."

COMMON CRY
A common cry from the laymen of the church can do much, he told the annual meeting of the church executive council here. Dr. R. E. Wodehouse of Ottawa said "we may have to change our approach to Sunday sport. We should not try to tell those not in our church what to do but make sure that Anglican church members observe Sunday."

BATTLE BEING LOST
A committee report said the battle for a free Sunday is being lost. An important fact was "the apathy and indifference of church people who are not fully aware of the threats to the Christian Sunday which trends present."

The report mentioned Sunday sport issues in Vancouver and publication of a Sunday newspaper in Ontario.

MOUNTIES CITED
The Vancouver issue arose over the legality of the Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast Baseball League playing Sunday games and selling tickets up to midnight Saturday. The Toronto Sunday publication has since ended for reasons described by one delegate as "insufficient interest and a financial loss."

The committee said the church is "not opposed to Sunday recreation and it is not trying to impose Sunday worship on an unwilling populace but it is opposed to Sunday sport promoted for profit."

NO COMPULSION
The report said the church permits amateur sports Sundays and would not make public worship Sunday "compulsory, even if she could."

As a result of present pressures, there will undoubtedly be a review of the Lord's Day Act of Canada, it said.

Present for Prince

Prince Charles will soon own this midget racing car, a present from eight-year-old Charles Raabe of Los Angeles. The American Charles, who has won more than 200 trophies since he started racing at the age of 3½, is shown in the small racer as it is loaded aboard a plane for England. The model is three feet long, weighs 160 pounds, is powered by a one-cylinder gasoline lawnmower engine and can travel from 10 to 30 mph.

New York Schools Drop Book

'Huck Finn' Anti-Negro?

NEW YORK (UP)—Mark Twain's "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" has been dropped as a textbook in New York's elementary and junior high schools, apparently because of passages derogatory to Negroes.

The book, which relates the experiences of a boy and his friends along the Mississippi River in the 19th century, also may be on its way out as a textbook in New York high schools.

Miss Ethel Huggard, associate school superintendent in charge of curriculum development, confirmed that the board of education had failed to renew three textbook contracts for the book. She denied, however, that this stemmed from objections to the book, which is regarded as one of Twain's greatest works.

Miss Huggard said the book, published in 1885, was dropped as a text because it was decided it was not actually a textbook. Copies of the book are still available, however, in New York school libraries, she said.

Dropping of the book was a matter of selection and without "prejudice to the book," she said.

Sixth Fleet Irked Allies

LONDON (Reuters)—The presence of the United States 6th Fleet in the eastern Mediterranean caused Anglo-French forces great anxiety during their November Suez intervention, Gen. Sir Charles Keightley, commander of the Egyptian force, said in dispatches published Thursday.

Keightley described how combined British and French forces under his command landed at Port Said, advanced 23 miles south and then turned over the area to the United Nations Emergency Force, completing the evacuation Dec. 22.

Keightley said the U.S. fleet, which was present to assist in the evacuation of American nationals from Egypt and other Mediterranean countries, caused "very real difficulties" to Anglo-French forces operating in the same area.

Keightley said he had expected to have 10 days' notice before any operations began in the area but after the Israeli invasion of Egypt Oct. 30, he had only 10 hours warning before he began moving troops eastward from Cyprus.

Flu Bug Hits QOR

EDMONTON (CPI)—The army said today an "acute viral infection" has struck 60 men at the Calgary depot of the Queen's Own Rifles.

The entire depot has been placed under quarantine. There was no reference in the announcement here to any possibility of an outbreak of Asian influenza. However, tests are underway to determine the nature of the infection.

Walker Cup Stars
In U.S. Golf Semis

Four members of the victor United States Walker Cup golf team yesterday reached their golf championship, being played at Brookline, Mass.

After unusually close and bitterly fought quarter final matches, Dr. Frank "Bud" Taylor, Princeton, Calif. dentist, Rex Barber, 21-year-old University of Houston, Texas, and Rodolph 23-year-old Alton, Minn. from Clarksville, Tenn. and Hillman Robinson, 25-year-old lieutenant from Memphis, reached the semi-finals.

Baxter fought off a scramble by college teammate Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., to win on the third extra hole. Rubinfeld eliminated Dick Yost of Portland, one of the favorites on the 19th. Robinson defeated Dick Chapman, 44-year-old ex-champion who was making a comeback try and Foxworth, who is 40, scored a 2-up victory over Gene Anderson.

In today's semi-final matches, the favored Taylor meets Rodolph and Baxter plays Robinson.

REDAID IN UPNET Canadian Davis Cupper Bob Bedard scored the second straight upset in the international tennis tournament in Toronto yesterday, downing fourth-seeded Kurt Nielson of Denmark, 6-1, 6-1, in the completion of a match postponed Wednesday after two sets. Others to reach the semi-finals were Gene Rogers, 19, of Los Angeles, who whipped third-seeded Lyle of Chile, 1-6, 7-5, 1-6, and Budgie Pelly of Los Angeles, who whipped Kessel Kamo of Japan, 6-4, 6-2.

New York financier said yesterday he heads a television syndicate which has offered to buy Brooklyn Dodgers for $7,500,000 to keep the club in Brooklyn. Johnny Bright and Normie Kwong, star fullbacks for Edmonton Eskimos, are leading the Western Interprovincial Football Union in ground-gaining. Bright has a net gain of 329 yards in 30 carries, while Kwong is second with 427 yards in 80 carries.

BLAKE SIGNS: Hector "Toe" Blake has signed to coach the Stanley Cup-champion Montreal Canadiens for his third season. General manager Frank Gielke said the contract was for one year. Baltimore Orioles have announced that pitcher Don Ferrarese and Art Houtteman of Vancouver Mounties will join the parent club as soon as the Pacific Coast Baseball League season ends.

Ten players were suspended for life and another two for one year by the Edmonton and District Football League as a result of a fan and player uprising in Edmonton Monday night. Former middleweight champion Rocky Graziano has bet $500 that Sugar Ray Robinson will knock out Carmen Basilio in the first round of their upcoming three-fight at 121 odds.

Bob Talbot, secretary of the West-ern Interprovincial Football Union, said Tuesday a trophy in memory of Marie Delaney and Mel Becker, Saskatchewan Roughriders players killed in a plane crash, will be presented to the league.

The WIFU have announced the signing of centre Bob Jenkins, cut by Washington Redskins of the National Football League. Centre Red Sullivan has been named captain of the New York Rangers for the coming season.

President Jack McKinnon of the B.C. Professional Golfers' Association has disclosed that the B.C. open championships will be played at Burquitlam Golf Club, Vancouver, October 11 and 12.

Captain Jim Skinner of Detroit Red Wings said Thursday he is impressed with the work of

Share Golf Honors
Mrs. B. Threlwell and Mrs. A. Dowell tied for both low net and low gross honors in a medal round for women golfers with handicaps of 15 and under Monday at Colwood.

The two golfers shot gross scores of 90 and recorded the lowest net of 80.

Big Cars Compete
For B.C. Honors

Big cars make their final appearance of the season at Western Speedway Saturday night when some of the top drivers in the Pacific Northwest gather for the annual B.C. championship race.

About 15 American cars are expected to enter the 10-lap race, biggest of its kind ever held in British Columbia, and a record purse of $500 in lap money plus $50 for anyone beating the track big car record.

Officials expect a jackpot of about $2,000. The race, timed at 1:30 p.m., will be the first of a series of races on the new paved surface, which will stand up against the onslaught of the American drivers, who are once again given a big edge over local entries.

Only Victoria cars expected to provide serious competition are a Mercury driven by Bob Simpson and Grant King's Kamo of Japan, 6-4, 6-2.

Receipts for Robinson-Basilio Fight
Could Establish New Record for Ring

By STEVE SNIDER
NEW YORK (UP)—A theatre

television network executive said today sugar Ray Robinson and Carmen Basilio can draw the greatest fight gate in his history on Sept. 23, surprising turnout for the second Dempsey-Tunney fight at Chicago.

"That's no pipe-dream," said Nate Halpern, president of Theatre Network Television, Inc., which will carry the fight on a closed circuit to at least 172 movie houses in 131 cities.

"The fight itself is a natural. Certainly the facilities are there, including more than 500,000 theatre seats, to set a new record for gross receipts."

Halpern, still a trifle groggy from several hard rounds with Robinson, who once threatened to call off the fight because of the theatre TV arrangements, preferred to steel clear of any actual predictions involving money.

"But," he said, "figure it out yourself." So the figures show only two fights in history topped the two million mark. One was Tunney's prospect at Chicago, Sept. 23, 1935, 30 years ago, and the other was Rocky Marciano's fight with Archie Moore ($2,450,000) with a large assist from closed circuit TV on Sept. 21, 1955.

"This will be an even bigger closed circuit network than we had for Martin-Moore," said Halpern. "We have enough to make theatres into movie cities."

"Our first was Joe Louis and Lee Savold in 1951," said Halpern, who came out of Sioux City, Iowa by way of California to become a CBS executive in the early days of commercial television. "I think we had eight theatres on a six-city hook-up on a triangle including Boston, Chicago and Washington."

But Robinson-Basilio will be seen larger than life on vast theatre screens in cities ranging from Portland, Me., to Portland, Ore., from St. Paul, Minn., to

St. Petersburg, Fla. and a couple of cities in Canada. TNT, originated by Halpern and the only closed circuit outfit in operation more than a year, has put on more than 80,000 hours of "shows" in the

"The backbone of our business is tele-seasons for big industries," he said. "Suppose General Motors General Electric wants to get together with salesmen and regional officers to unveil new products or new techniques. We can do it in a one or two-hour show in closed circuit TV giving top executives a direct contact with their men in the field."

More than once he said the tele-seasons have included an original hour-long musical revue produced by some of the best on Broadway as an added spice to the business sessions.

"I believe the most dramatic thing we've ever presented was a long cancer operation witnessed by 3,000 surgeons around the country," said Halpern. "Still, I think when Rob-

At present, the most common method of determining the equivalent length of the cable is by means of the following procedure: a cable of length  $l$  is suspended from a fixed point and a weight  $P$  is attached to the free end. The weight  $P$  is then moved to the fixed point and the cable is allowed to fall. The distance  $h$  that the weight  $P$  falls is then measured. The equivalent length  $L$  of the cable is then given by the equation  $L = h/P$ .

Eels Make Unusual Tasty Supper Dish

Don't blame me if you don't like this story. It literally makes me squirm. But if you look at your calendar it's an unlucky day anyway. Here come the facts ... straight from the Department of Fisheries in Ottawa ...

EELS MAKE GOOD EATING

In the province of Quebec there's an interesting fishery which reaches its peak during the fall months. This is the eel fishery. Toward the end of August, mature eels from inland waters begin a migration down the St. Lawrence River toward the sea. As they proceed to salt water fishermen catch them in traps. (There is nothing original about this—I'm just quoting a story which was sent to me.)

Although the rich, white, delicate flesh of the eel is in great demand outside of Canada, generally speaking few Canadians are familiar with it as a menu item. The Japanese, we are told, like to marinate eels in soy sauce and then grill them over charcoal. In England, so says this article, eels are commonly served in pies. (Now wait a minute—calling all Englishwomen!)

Just for the fun of it, let's carry on with the article if you and I can stop our squirming. In this food game we all "help out the other fellow." And so it is my fellow home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries come up with the following:

MATELOTE OF EELS

Two-pound eel, dressed; 2 tablespoons melted butter; ½ cup chopped onion; 2 cups sliced raw potato; 1 cup diced raw carrot; ½ cup celery; ½ cup raw white rice; 2 teaspoons salt; 4 teaspoon pepper; boiling water.

Have your fish dealer clean and skin the eel and remove the backbone. Cut it into 1½-inch pieces. Then soak it for five minutes in a quart of very cold water to which 2 tablespoons of salt have been added. Drain. Cook onion in melted butter, or margarine, until transparent but not brown. Combine onion, eel, raw vegetables, rice and seasonings. Add boiling water to cover. Bring to simmering temperature, cover the container and simmer gently until vegetables are very tender. Naturally, you'll serve it in soup bowls.

Talking of rather weird recipes, which we certainly were doing, let's keep on going. Do you ever cook tripe? Nutritionally speaking, it's a sound choice.

CREAMED TRIPE

(about 3 servings)
One pound tripe (ask your butcher which is the best buy—veal, beef, or lamb); 1 cup liquid, preferably vegetable cooking water; 2 tablespoons vinegar; 2 cups white sauce (medium thickness); 2 tablespoons finely-chopped onion; 2 tablespoons chopped parsley; ½ teaspoon summer savory; celery salt and pepper to taste.

Put the cut-up tripe in saucepan with liquid and vinegar. Simmer until very tender—this takes quite a while—a couple of hours or so.

If necessary, add a little more liquid during the cooking period. Remove tripe from saucepan. Make the cream sauce in same utensil using any left-over liquid. Add onions, herbs and seasonings and simmer for about 10 minutes. Cut tripe into small squares with scissors and drop into the sauce. As soon as re-heated serve immediately. Parsleyed carrots and a dark green vegetable make a good color contrast.

TRICK OF THE DAY

Says Mrs. J. T. "... When you receive beautiful roses (which I do not) add an aspirin or two to the water when they begin to droop."

Church Group Plans Supper

Mrs. A. Taylor and Mrs. T. Brown, were joint hostesses to St. David's Women's Guild meeting at the Lockside home of Mrs. Taylor Tuesday afternoon.

The members decided to help put on the annual congregational harvest supper, to be held in the church hall, Oct. 4, in conjunction with members of the Evening Guild and the church committee. A traditional Thanksgiving Day menu was planned, to be cooked and served by the ladies. A short program to follow the supper will be arranged by the men.

The annual Christmas bazaar and tea will be held, as usual, on the first Wednesday in December. Stall holders and all arrangements for the sale will be made at the next Guild meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. K. M. Lewis, Tuesday, October 8. Tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Walker and Mrs. D. M. Kay, assisting.

Visitors Besieged with Questions

(Editor's Note: Mrs. J. E. Huckvale, a member of the Lechbridge Herald staff, recently returned following a five-week visit to Europe. Two of which were spent in Russia. She has a lot to say about the country, its people and its future. This is the second of a series of articles on her impressions on the trip.)

Almost any Canadian who enjoys — and who doesn't — being the centre of attention, the cynosure of all eyes, can indulge his longing if he will visit the USSR.

Modest sum of money and reconcile himself to a few minor discomforts, he can go to Russia.

Walk along the street anywhere in the USSR and you will be the subject of curious and furtive glances before you've gone more than a few yards. Stop to look in a shop window, two or three people will watch; sit on a park bench; soon someone will come along to talk to you. If the latter can speak English or you can speak Russian, a crowd will gather slowly. You will be the centre of attention — an hour of the day, it's that easy.

VISIT TO GORKI PARK

You had better be ready, though, to answer some surprising questions, some so personal that even in the USSR you may feel a little diffident about divulging the correct answers to the eager, solemn group who will surround you.

One evening during my visit to Moscow, a female travelling companion and I, having decided that the evening's entertainment which we were encouraged to attend by Intourist, was not to our taste, went on an expedition to Gorki Park. This is the biggest amusement park in Moscow comprising acres of wooded land where beneath the trees you can listen to an open-air piano concert, watch a puppet show, hear a male chorus, look at an exhibition of painting, watch a fireworks display or read a book in a secluded woodland library.

PERSONAL CURIOSITY

"What did your shoes cost?" "What does your apartment look like. How many rooms does it have?" (It is hard for a Russian to believe that many city dwellers in America or Canada have homes of their own. Urbanites of the USSR are all apartment dwellers.) "We like Americans and Canadians. Do you like us?" "What do you think of our subway?" In answer to the latter question one had to admit that the only subway in Canada is very modest by comparison. One bystander said frankly that he felt that Moscow subway had cost a great deal too much. "Americans know how better to spend their money than the Russians do," he said. Incidentally, Candians might just as well become used to being classified with possibly a few to admire — were ment. TV cameras were rushed to the scene to take photographs of the crowds, not the paintings.

THE UNANSWERABLES

Then came the unanswerables. "What have you Americans done with all the Russian prisoners you found in Germany and wouldn't you want to return?" "Why do you want to drop your atomic bombs on us?" "Why are you so afraid of the Negroes?"

I say answers to these questions are impossible because a simple denial of preconceived ideas to an indoctrinated Russian is hopeless. They believe what they have been told by their government, day in day out, year after year.

In turn we asked a few questions and received equally unwelcome indoctrinated answers.

PAT ANSWERS

"How," we said, "does your government justify its treatment of the Hungarians?" The answer to that one is that the uprising was caused by a small group of agitators and the USSR had to "protect" the majority of Hungarians who were endangered. In answer to how they felt about the deposition of Stalin from his place in the sun, they replied naively, again with the old party line ... Stalin had been a great man in his time but in his old age he had succumbed to bad advice and influence, etc., etc.

Pushing our way through the crowd with our self-appointed guide we started for home. Offers to correspond with us, requests for his name were politely refused. He felt that "it would be better that way."

Depositing us in a taxi, just as a happily inherited German festival visitor fell out the door, following "Auf Wiedersehen" to all and sundry, he bade us a pleasant good-bye. It was quite an evening for two ladies in Gorki Park.

Incidentally ... The exhibition of art in Gorki Park I did not see, but our friend told us that it was abstract work from France and Italy. The crowds

Stained Glass Windows To Be Dedicated Oct. 13

The Women's Auxiliary to the Veterans' Hospital held its first monthly meeting of the season on Monday at the hospital.

Mrs. F. K. Russell was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Leslie Macdonald reported that the stained glass windows had been installed in the chapel and that the dedication service would be held on Oct. 13.

Two silver candlesticks, donated by the Bastion chapter of the IOOE and the Victoria Veterans' Hospital Chapel committee, will be placed in the chapel shortly.

Mrs. A. G. Woodhouse, convener of the Dogwood committee, reported that dogwood pins were on sale at several Victoria stores.

The Victoria Numismatic Society will meet on Friday, Sept. 13, at 8 p.m. in the Art Centre. To aid in the drive for funds, there will be a collection of coins, foreign or Canadian, at the door. The collection box will be sold, unopened, by auction at the close of the usual auction. Visitors welcome.

The WBA Review No. 1 will meet in the Orange Hall on Monday, Sept. 16. There will be an apron shower.

Mrs. Eric Young, vice-president, was chosen as the delegate to represent the auxiliary at the auxiliary's division, BCHA convention, in Vancouver next month. Mrs. Leslie Macdonald is also attending the convention and will be chairman of a panel discussion on function of a hospital auxiliary.

Mrs. George Ree, assisted by Mrs. M. Peterson, Mrs. B. Ross and Mrs. F. E. Clarke visited 258 patients in the hospital and distributed cigarettes, tobacco and candy.

Mrs. J. Barr reported that a picnic was held on Aug. 7 for the patients. Unfortunately the picnic had to be held in the hospital due to bad weather.

Mrs. Eric Young reported that the auxiliary will sponsor a fashion show at Hudson's Bay on Sept. 14 at 2:30 p.m.

Miss Jean Roberts, library convener, reported that 292 books were distributed to patients in June, 347 in July and 372 in August.

Mrs. E. G. Hart, who convenered the Dogwood garden fête in June, thanked the many people who did so much to make it a success.

Miss Cooper, director of nurses at the Veterans' Hospital, was introduced to the members.

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

FASHION FIRSTS

What will it be, your first Fall dress? The choice is wider than in seasons' less limited by skin-tight sheaths. In fact, fashion accolades go to a look quite the opposite of the plastered-on. New dresses have a distinctly easy air. Semi-fitted, mid-line, bloused back and released-sheath, silhouettes refine rather than confine the figure. And in a most graceful, willowy way.

Depending on your own figure, naturally some lines are more effective than others. A guide follows:

Are you under 5'6" and well-proportioned? If so, a semi-fitted dress, near-straight and beltless, has your name on it.

You are medium to very tall, and slim-hipped? Then take a flyer on the mid-line, either a two-piece version with long overblouse or an all-one with hipline belt.

You're heavy-hipped? Dresses with bloused backs minimize that department.

It's an all-over problem—too thin, too heavy? Softened in every line and belted to contour, the released sheath softens any difficulty you might suffer.

YOUR MOST BECOMING LINES

Do you know in detail what lines in clothing enhance your good points and play down the not-so-good? The right lines do both and so make a fine figure of a woman? How it's done is told in our leaflet, "Your Most Becoming Lines." Advice is individual and includes silhouettes, necklines, shoulders, sleeves, belts, trimmings. To obtain your copy, write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and five cents in coin.

Store-Snooping

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I don't often allow myself to be lured into accompanying my wife on her weekend food shopping expeditions, for the food budget gets shot to blazes as soon as I set foot inside a modern supermarket.

While women seem to be able to stick to their shopping lists buy what there is at an altitude low when confronted with a lot of fancy exotic foods, and we come home with the car laden with anchovies and Polish dills and imported cheese, canned artichoke hearts and herrings in wine sauce.

Last week, though, I succumbed to temptation and went along to help buy the week's groceries, and while snooping around the supermarket I ran into several items of some interest to gardeners.

In the vegetable section, for instance, I was pleased to find that the new crop of sweet potatoes had arrived, and there was a big lot of pumpkins, some of which were a contrast to the shaggy-headed specimens I had seen last year's crop.

I thought that of sweet potato, used to start as houseplants, for the use of potato vine is just about the poorest thing that can ever be seen, trailing vine, wandering shoots with red stems and heart-shaped leaves of jade green. The plant doesn't need very much light, which means you can use it on the fireplace mantle or the dining room buffet, far removed from the nearest window. There are not very many plants which will thrive in such problem spots.

When I got my two tubers home, the shopkeeper showed me a pair of sprouts to keep, and I was told there were any mould or rot spores present. One of them was planted in a potful of soil half buried with the thickest end sticking out of the soil, while the other was started in water, hanging on its side in a dish with about two inches of water over it. So far the one in water is showing the most growth, with the disk filling up with white roots and about six red shoots sprouting from the big end.

There was a table in the supermarket filled with cuttings and ends being cleared off at bargain prices, stems and ends of plants, damaged cabbages and what not. And here I found a bunch of ear of corn, some of which were marked "50c each". I don't know what the staff is used for in food—probably for making the pickles or sitting down meat, but it is a very powerful fertilizer for plants.

In gardening, sodium nitrate is known as Chilean saltpetre, as distinct from ordinary saltpetre, which is potassium nitrate, and dissolved in water, it has the power of being absorbed by plants faster than any other form of fertilizer. The 50c cuttings at a store each were terrific, but I had to leave the lot and will be back later.

While the growth of some of my plants

The store had a special on grass seed 5 lbs. for $1.19, and I wondered how they could possibly sell the stuff for such a low price. For good grass seed usually runs about $1.20 per lb., and the new strain of Kentucky blue grass, Merion Blue, is about $1.75 per lb.

I found the answer when I had a closer look at the seeds in their plastic bag. It was good seed, make no mistake about that, but it was from a variety of grass which bears the coarse seeds, so you'd need a lot more of it to cover a given area of lawn than of the small-seeded grass. Two lbs. of Merion Blue is about 100 sq. ft. of lawn, while you'd need at least 8 lbs. of this coarse seed to cover the same area.

BRIDGE QUIZ

To the player unfamiliar with the art of "balancing," it is sur prising to see with how little an expert will respond when with a much stronger hand he might sell and let the opponents play their onebid.

The partner-protecting situa tion arises when both your part ner and the opener's partner have passed the opening bid.

As far back as 1935 we recom mended in our book, "The Four

Aces System of Contract

Bridge," that fourth hand should assume that a substantial por tion of the missing high cards are in his partner's hand. He should consider reopening the bidding, even with a weak hand.

With both sides vulnerable, the bidding goes:

What should East do with each of the following hands?

Nanaimo's Biggest Fair Opened by Westwood

NANAIMO—The 1957 fall fair, Nanaimo's biggest yet, was officially opened last night by Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood.

The opening day saw Exhibition Park a hive of activities as workmen continued to work against the clock to be ready for the opening. Judging of the agricultural and floral classes was completed by mid-afternoon by A. E. Little of the B.C. department of agriculture, and E. J. Stowe, of Victoria.

Directors of Vancouver Island Exhibition Board are anticipating crowds of 30,000 by Saturday night. About 15,000 people attended last year's event. The board is giving away $5,000 in prize money.

First results:

Volunteers Form Fire Unit

NORTH OYSTER—A volunteer fire department will be formed in this district to serve the area from Takla Road at the head of Oyster Harbor, up to the Nanaimo River at Cassidy, across to Dogwood Store and across to Yellow Point.

Decision to form the department was made at a special meeting of the North Oyster Ratepayers' Association and negotiations are under way to purchase a fire truck formerly used in Saanich.

Alex Smith, secretary of the ratepayers' association, said 200 families will be served by the department. A canvass of the district will be made for contributions to aid in purchase of the truck and equipment.

Swims Set For Grade 5

Swimming lessons will be given to some 2,000 Grade 5 students in Greater Victoria at the Crystal Garden this year.

The classes, sponsored by the school board, started several years ago with only 10 groups, but 28 groups will be trained this year.

The swimming instruction is divided into two classes, one in the fall and the second in the spring. The free instruction is part of the school curriculum and takes place during school hours.

School Crisis Passes

Only four of the 10,000 school classrooms in the province failed to open last week because of a shortage of teachers, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said yesterday.

Last month he said the department feared there would be about 200 classrooms unable to open due to the shortage.

However, the minister said yesterday that an appeal for former teachers to come back into the service had resulted in an extra 158 teachers being available for this school term.

"Today only four classrooms remain closed and there is every chance that these will be filled in the next few days," Mr. Peterson stated.

Indian Clergyman a Possibility

Dr. Kelly May Go to Senate

REV. PETER KELLY

Twelve Straight Daughter Record

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP)—Mrs. Raymond Beston gave birth to her 12th daughter Wednesday—a medical rarity. She has no sons. Doctors said the chance of having 12 of a kind are "slimmer than slim."

NANAIMO—A seat in the senate would crown the life's work of the Rev. Dr. Peter Kelly, of Nanaimo, a Haida Indian who has fought for the betterment of the Indian for nearly 50 years.

Though he has not yet been named as a candidate to the upper house has been suggested.

Should he be approached, Dr. Kelly said yesterday that he would "gladly accept after giving my life-long endeavors to improve the lot of the Indian."

He is looking forward to seeing the present government giving the Indian federal franchise. He was in Ottawa and heard Mr. Diefenbaker criticize the Liberal government for turning down an amendment to the Election Act in 1948.

"Some of the Liberals' especially James St. Laurent, spoke very strongly against it," he said.

Should he be appointed, the work would not conflict with his present position as president of the B.C. Conference of United Churches. The United Church feels that ministers who have served 40 years are entitled to seek other lines of endeavor. "I am a free agent, according to the rules," he remarked.

B.C. Sets $15,000 For Fair Grounds

Provincial cabinet yesterday granted $15,000 for the improvement of fall fair grounds at Duncan and Nanaimo.

The Vancouver Island Exhibition Association at Nanaimo was given $10,000 and the Cowichan Exhibition Association at Duncan, $5,000, after both had requested financial assistance to improve the grounds and erect new buildings.

Prodigy with Curls Has Come Long Way

TORONTO (CP) — The man who will be sworn in at a ceremony who will become Canada's new External Affairs Minister, is well known to Canadians as a child prodigy with blonde curls who grew up to be president of the largest university in the British Commonwealth, a big extrovert with bushy grey hair.

He has won a reputation as a crackpot administrator and a social charmer during his 13 years as president of the University of Toronto and before that as a member of the University of Manitoba.

He has dabbled in politics, often being regarded as a possible leader of the Progressive Conservative party.

Like John Foster Dulles, his American counterpart, he is an enthusiastic trout fisherman. Like Dulles, he is a religious man, was reared on John Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress and destined for the ministry. Like Dulles, he went into law instead.

FATHER A FARMER

But unlike the U.S. secretary of state, Mr. Smith was not born into a diplomatic family. His father was a farmer.

The boy became a teacher, like his mother, who gave birth to her fourth son in the small village of Port Hood on Nova Scotia's Cape Breton Island.

At the age of six young Sidney talked his mother into cutting off his blonde curls and began attending a one-room, whitewashed schoolhouse. He rowed a mile to and from the mainland each day to attend high school, and entered university at 14.

DEGREE AT 18

At 18 he won his degree, then went overseas in the First World War. He fought at Passchendaele and trained as a pilot in the Royal Flying Corps.

After the war he went back to school, taking his master's degree in art and then a law degree at Dalhousie University in Halifax.

After an unhappy year practicing law, he was persuaded by his former dean to enter a teaching career. He went to Harvard on loans and part-time jobs, won his doctorate in law, then began lecturing at Dalhousie.

He spent a year teaching at Osgoode Hall law school in Toronto, then returned to Dalhousie and became dean of its law school.

No Change For Fulton

OTTAWA (BUP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker branded as false a report that Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton would become full-time immigration minister and turn over his justice portfolio to Solicitor-General Louis St. Laurent.

Diefenbaker said that Mr. Fulton would continue to carry the double portfolio.

Nurses Hear Of New Field

One of the newest fields open to nurses who are willing to work in foreign countries was described yesterday to the graduate staff at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Miss Dorothy Potts, who recently spent four years in East Bengal as leader of a World Health Organization nurse-education team, told of the need for more nurses for these advisory teams.

At present, she said, Canada supplies the largest number of nurses for the nurse-training work.

In East Bengal, Miss Potts helped to organize a school of nursing and taught five of the Bengali nurses how to teach nursing.

"When the team went into the area, none of the nurses had more than basic training," Miss Potts said. "WHO acts as an advisory group to help the people help themselves."

In Miss Potts' particular area, there was only one nurse for every 170,000 persons of the population. Canada's ratio is one nurse for every 350 persons.

Miss Potts, a former director of nursing in Belleville, Ont., has taken a year's leave of absence for further study and now is awaiting an appointment to Singapore.

She was the first speaker in St. Joseph's "In Service Education" series for the graduate staff.

CPR Orders 117 Diesels

MONTREAL (CP) — The CPR has placed orders for 117 diesel locomotive units at a cost of $24,000,000. The order was split between Montreal Locomotive Works and General Motors.

It will bring to 944 the number of diesel locomotive units on CPR lines.
